Redo ID

世界从来没有一个最终的“成品”。我们所身处的社会结构、城市景观、甚至我们每天面对的日常现实，永远处于一种被搭建、被修改、被测试的“未完成状态”。当事物的虚拟性与可编辑性被彻底暴露，在算法编辑的底层逻辑里，报错、撤销以及不断地重构，本就是通往下一个版本的必经之路。

生命与社会的演进同样如此，它们并非为了抵达某个一劳永逸的完美结局。在这个永远无法完工的覆写剧场里，我们既是素材，也是操作者；既是样本，也是编辑者；既被环境塑形，也共同塑造世界。

The world has never been a finished final product. The social structures we inhabit, urban landscapes, and even the everyday reality we encounter remain perpetually unfinished—continually constructed, revised, and trialed.

When the virtuality and editability of all things are fully laid bare, errors, undo actions and constant reconstruction are inherent steps leading to the next iteration within the underlying logic of algorithmic editing.

The evolution of life and society follows the same rule. They are never meant to reach a permanent, flawless end state.

Inside this ever-unfinished theatre of overwriting, we serve as both raw material and operator, both test subject and editor. We are shaped by our surroundings, yet collectively we reshape the world.

起始结构没有呈现完成建筑，而像被调出的底层骨架；ID在脚手架、线路与光点中成为可继续编辑的接口。

The opening structure does not appear as a finished building, but as an exposed underlying framework; within scaffolds, circuits, and light points, the ID becomes an interface that remains editable.

环形轨道围绕中心样本旋转，观看不再是旁观，而是一次校准、选择与重写关系的操作过程。

Circular tracks rotate around the central sample; viewing is no longer passive observation, but an operational process of calibration, selection, and relational rewriting.

机械肋骨取代完整立面，空间像被拆开的身体；结构不是外壳，而是身份生成时暴露的算法骨骼。

Mechanical ribs replace the completed façade, making space resemble a disassembled body; structure is no longer a shell, but the algorithmic skeleton exposed during the formation of identity.

人脸隐入施工剧场之中，身体不再是主体终点，而是被钢架、屏幕与光束共同塑形的样本。

The face recedes into a theatre of construction; the body is no longer the final subject, but a sample shaped collectively by steel frames, screens, and beams of light.

节点和连线覆盖建筑现场，界面把秩序临时拼合；每一次连接都暗示下一次报错、撤销和重构。

Nodes and connecting lines overlay the architectural site, while the interface temporarily assembles order; every connection implies the next error, undo, and reconstruction.

人像被光网置于中央，身份像正在被扫描的模型；可见的不是完成自我，而是可被编辑的关系。

The portrait is positioned at the center of a luminous network, as if identity were a model being scanned; what becomes visible is not a completed self, but an editable set of relations.

绿色投影覆盖面孔，像一次系统级标注；个人形象被译为数据表皮，在观看中被持续筛选。

A green projection covers the face like a system-level annotation; the personal image is translated into a data skin, continuously filtered through the act of viewing.

更清晰的人像嵌入幕墙系统，身体成为环境的反馈面；个体与界面互相编辑，彼此留下痕迹。

A clearer portrait is embedded within the curtain-wall system, turning the body into a feedback surface of the environment; individual and interface edit one another, leaving traces on both sides.

破碎数据与流体状颗粒包围人像，现实不再稳定呈现，而是在溢出、遮蔽和重组中生成。

Fragmented data and fluid-like particles surround the portrait; reality no longer appears as a stable image, but is generated through overflow, concealment, and recombination.

最终画面退回像素化接口，人物与建筑被压缩成可替换模块；世界仍停留在未完成的版本中。

The final image retreats into a pixelated interface, where figure and architecture are compressed into replaceable modules; the world remains suspended in an unfinished version.
